Laser Proctology

Revolutionizing Anorectal Surgery with Minimal Invasiveness and Faster Healing

Dr. Abdul Jabbar Mirani

Consultant General Surgeon, Head of Surgical Department & Head of 24 Hours Clinic

The different types of Laser are being used in the field of medicines over a five decades but in the field of Proctology surgery it is emerging technique, in which diode laser is used to treat the diseases. Laser rays are different from other energy sources in which the heat produced and its penetration to the adjacent tissue is minimum. The laser works on the principle of vaporizing the solid tissue while converting the liquid into solid state.

Proctology is a branch of Surgery which deals with the diseases focused mainly to anorectal region like Haemorrhoids(piles), Fissure in ano, Fistula in ano and Pilonidal sinus. As this is era of Minimal invasive surgery & after the invention of laser for treatment of the above-mentioned conditions, the outlook of treatment and fear of pain or recurrence has changed completely. The conventional treatment for these conditions used to be very painful and had a long-term effect in daily routine and lifestyle. By the use of laser in haemorrhoids, the dilated veins filled with blood are converted to solid state resulting in gradual shrinkage of pile mass. In fissure-in-ano, the non-healing ulcerated area is ablated by laser leading to vaporization of ulcerated mucosa with subsequent healing by normal mucosa. In fistula and pilonidal sinus, the unhealthy granulation tissue is ablated with subsequent vaporization of unhealthy granulation tissue. Later, the cavity collapses and is replaced by healthy granulation tissue and subsequent healing of fistula and pilonidal sinus.

-  Less invasive
-  No or minimal post-operative pain
-  Less trauma
-  Heals Faster
-  Minimum duration of hospital stays (Can be done as Day-case surgery)
-  Very low recurrence rate as compared to open surgery
-  No or minimal bleeding
-  No need for long term pain relief treatment
-  No post-op fibrosis or risk of anal incontinence.

We have seen hope rekindled, strength discovered, and spirits lifted, and we continue to strive to provide the highest quality patient care.

Al Kindi Hospital, Surgical Oncology Unit Saves a Teenager's Life with Complex Colorectal Surgery.

A new achievement credited to the surgical oncology diagnosis and treatment unit at Al Kindi Hospital, emergency surgery was performed for a 16-year-old patient suffering from inflammatory bowel disease (Crohn's disease), where the disease led to the formation of fistulas between the intestine and the abdominal wall, resulting in a perforation in the colon and severe abdominal distension and bloating, as the patient was in a very serious condition and suffered from fluctuations in vital signs from an increase in heart rate then severe drop in the heart rate to very dangerous levels and a drop in his blood pressure as well.

The medical caring team, consisting of surgeons, gastroenterologists, and anesthesia doctors began to resuscitate the patient and diagnose the problem, and found the presence of free abdominal air outside the gastrointestinal tract.

The patient was then transferred to the intensive care unit, and then to the operating room on an emergency basis. The surgical team led by Dr. Raed AlMarzooq, General surgeon, surgical oncologist, and colorectal surgeon, removed the perforated and diseased part of the Colon, reconnected the bowel, and created an ileostomy. The patient needed to remain in the intensive care unit for five days. He was transferred to the ward, where he was cared for until he recovered and was discharged from the hospital after approximately 10 days. He continued to follow up in the surgical clinic until it was confirmed that he had recovered from surgery and complications of the disease.

Challenging Surgery Saves 52-Years Woman from a Large Tumor

Dr. Hatem Shawki, Head Of Obstetrics & Gynecology Department And Consultant Obstetrics & Gynecology - Infertility, recently underwent a successful major surgery to a 52-year-old woman. Concerned by unusual spotting, a 52 years female sought medical attention. Dr. Hatem Shawki, after reviewing her medical history and conducting a comprehensive examination, discovered a large mass of Fibrosis and Ovarian Tumors. Knowing the potential risks associated with such tumors, the doctor recommended surgery. The two-hour procedure, while challenging, successfully removed a large mass of fibroid along with the uterus. The dedicated efforts of the surgical team and, as the doctor acknowledges, God's blessings, contributed to the operation's success. This woman's journey highlights the importance of seeking medical attention for even seemingly minor changes in your health. Early diagnosis and intervention can often lead to positive outcomes, as in this case. It's also a reminder of the skill and dedication of medical professionals who work tirelessly to improve the lives of their patients.

Ruqaya's story is a testament of hope and resilience

This October, Al Kindi Hospital shines a light on hope and resilience amidst the fight against breast cancer. We celebrate Ruqaya, whose story embodies the power of early screening, positivity, and unwavering determination. Her journey serves as a beacon of inspiration for all women, reminding us that regular checkups and an optimistic spirit are essential weapons in this battle.

October 2019 marked a turning point in Ruqaya's life when she received a breast cancer diagnosis. Ruqaya suffered from breast pain without any other outward signs of breast color or shape change, however, through examination Dr. Amal Al Rayes meticulously detected a malignant gland. Though the news was initially challenging, Ruqaya found unwavering support in her family and Al Kindi Hospital medical team, especially Dr. Amal, she embarked on a remarkable journey of patience and self-discovery.

Chemotherapy, the first hurdle, tested her resilience. Hair loss and physical changes were challenging, but. Surgery followed, and then radiotherapy, its 22 sessions a testament to her persevering spirit. Today, on continued hormonal treatment, Ruqaya shines with pride. Ruqaya's inspiring story is a beacon of hope, urging us all to prioritize self-care and face challenges with unwavering support.

We extend our heartfelt wishes for a speedy recovery to all women battling breast cancer. Together, let us bloom hope and defeat this challenge with strength and unwavering support.
